NARCISSUS

UP TO MR. ROOSEVELT

SOME QUESTIONS VOTERS WOULD LIKE TO HAVE ANSWERED.

People Are Naturally Interested in the Matter of Campaign Contributions for the "Third Term Candidate."

Now that Mr. Roosevelt is screaming about Mr. Taft's surrender to the interests, Mr. Taft is charging that Mr. Roosevelt received corporation favors and returns them in protection and Mr. Perkins is artlessly confessing that he contributed to the campaign funds of both Mr. Taft and Mr. Roosevelt, perhaps we can get interesting information we have long sought.

We know that Mr. Perkins gave the Roosevelt fund $50,000 of insurance money and that two other insurance companies contributed $50,000 each. We know from Mr. Perkins' testimony that the Steel trust contributed to the fund of 1904.

We know that Mr. Harriman raised $260,000 for use in New York. We know that Standard Oil sent $100,000, which Mr. Roosevelt says he sent back. Mr. Armour boasted that the beef trust contributed to Mr. Roosevelt's fund. We know that Mr. Roosevelt checked the prosecution of the harvester trust and gave the friendly Morgan interests immunity in absorbing the Tennessee Coal and Iron company. But this information is fragmentary. If Mr. Roosevelt really is willing to have the whole truth known he should tell the country precisely what trusts contributed to his campaign fund and how much each one contributed; he should answer, or get Mr. Cortelyou to answer, these frequently repeated but so far unanswered questions of the Post-Dispatch:

1. How much has the Beef trust contributed to Mr. Cortelyou?
2. How much has the paper trust contributed to Mr. Cortelyou?
3. How much has the coal trust contributed to Mr. Cortelyou?
4. How much has the sugar trust contributed to Mr. Cortelyou?
5. How much has the oil trust contributed to Mr. Cortelyou?
6. How much has the tobacco trust contributed to Mr. Cortelyou?
7. How much has the steel trust contributed to Mr. Cortelyou?
8. How much has the insurance trust contributed to Mr. Cortelyou?
9. How much have the national banks contributed to Mr. Cortelyou?
10. How much have the six great railroad trusts contributed to Mr. Cortelyou?

Frank replies to these questions would be a valuable contribution not alone to the literature of the Roosevelt third-term campaign, but to the political history of the country.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch (Ind't).

Democratic Opportunity.
The Democratic responsibility, no less than the Democratic opportunity, is tremendous, for upon the Democratic party rests the obligation to afford the country a decent alternative in government, in case the present confusion and strife within the Republican ranks leaves the Republican party helpless to continue effectively in the administration of the nation's affairs.—Springfield Republican.

According to Teddy.
But, alas! the times change and the manners. In Teddy's Cabinet—1912—Knox was a profound jurist. In Taft's Cabinet—1912—Knox is Penrose's factotum. Under no circumstances are we permitted to doubt of this shrinkage in the measure of Philander. Have we not been told by a Maryland panegyrist that Teddy "is the greatest human being that ever trod this earth"? And doesn't his tread verify and visualize the boast of his idolator? Knox was, but is not.—Philadelphia Record.

FOR THE SIX-YEAR TERM

Chicago Journal Brings Forward Some Arguments That Appear to Have Weight.

The proposed constitutional amendment providing for a six-year term for our presidents, and no re-election, ought to be entitled:

"An amendment to restore the dignity of the presidential office, and to permit presidents to attend to public business."

If that amendment ever runs the gauntlet of congress and gets to the people of the United States, it will pass.

The argument now raised against it, that it will deprive the nation of the services of some proven great men in time of crisis, is too silly to be answered.

The proven great man can be useful without being president. Washington was not president when he held the fort at Valley Forge.

With the exception of Lincoln, the fate of this country has never rested on a single man since the constitution was adopted.

A single six-year term would have kept Lincoln in office nearly two years after the close of the war.

This country is not going to be destroyed by second-term candidates, nor even by third-term candidates. But this country is profoundly disgusted with a situation which a former president is making attacks on a present president, and the present president is obliged to drop his real duties to answer and slant back at the former president.

The single-term amendment will pass by a big majority if it ever gets to the people.—Chicago Journal.

The Big Spenders.
The biggest contributors to Democratic success at present are Messrs. Roosevelt and Taft, whose bureaus are costing $5,000 a day apiece.

The more they spend against each other the worse they do for the Republican party, whose failure is the issue of their controversy. They are in effect only advertising their party's and each other's shortcomings to the country. If the Democratic national committee had it they might spend $40,000 a day to the same purpose with less effect.

There is more educational value for the people in one day of controversy between the Republican leaders than there would be in flooding the mails with campaign literature for a month. If either the Taft or the Roosevelt bureau runs out of funds it would pay the Democrats to keep them going at their own expense, if possible.

When Did It Happen?

"I could not expect Senator Penrose's representative in the cabinet to take any other attitude," said Mr. Roosevelt when he was asked for his opinion of Secretary Knox's speech at Los Angeles.

Was Philander C. Knox "Senator Penrose's representative in the cabinet" when he was Mr. Roosevelt's attorney general? Was he "Senator Penrose's representative in the cabinet" when he won the Northern Securities case? Was he "Senator Penrose's representative in the cabinet" when Mr. Roosevelt said: "In Philander C. Knox I have a great attorney general?"

Or did Mr. Knox become Mr. Penrose's representative in the cabinet by remaining loyal to President Taft?

Favor Sugar Tariff Reduction.
Democratic members of the senate committee on finance practically agreed to favor a reduction of 33 1-3 per cent. from the present tariff on sugar and voted to abolish the Dutch standard and differential on sugar. This will be carried out in a provision which will be offered as an amendment to the Democratic house free sugar bill.
